

At the moment, most business phone users have two type of phones - the fixed phones which usually sit on their desks and the mobiles which usually sit in their pockets.

Both types of phones have advantages over the other, but until recently, combining the two into a single system has been difficult.

But Fixed – Mobile Convergence is now becoming reality, offering free-of-charge calls between office phones and mobiles

- extension dialling to the mobiles (no need to redial the 07xxx mobile number)
- transfer and/or conference calls between mobile and office phones (with FOC calls)
- one number - no need now to put mobile numbers on business cards
